

The Sea Beyond
Copyright 1980- Patrick McCartney and Nancy McCartney

The waves grow larger
And the dark creeps darker.
The bright eye of God
Has entered the sky.
The universe has turned itself on.
The gulls glide low
With slow motion.

(chorus)
The waves raced in
And pushed us to shore.
Where do they start?
And where will we end?
For the current is rapidly changing.

We lay on the shore
Of packed hard wet sand,
Loving each other completely.
Galveston slept
And we did likewise,
Wrapped up together so tightly.

(chorus)
Both she and I were held by the night,
Lullybyed by the sea.
Our blanket of sand
Kept us afloat,
And the sea wind
whispered so sweetly.

(chorus)
The sky thrashed wildly
And the sea broke loudly.
We dreamed of life
Unbroken and blest.
No thought of tomorrow.
No thought of today.
Contented completely in now.

(chorus- twice)
